RECIPE FOR FUZZY SOCK CUPCAKES...

ok...so maybe you're wondering how i did the little cupcakes...and...i i guess i'll be nice enough to share...hee hee...

here's the supplies you need...fuzzy socks...red pom pom (that's the cherry)...rubber bands (the smaller the better)...and a cupcake wrapper cut at 4"...i used the cricut easter mini cart...but i know there's a couple of cut files floating around!...check rachie's scrapspot...she's got tons of 'em!...all different sizes!...

with the socks right on top of each other...and the heel pointing up...start at the toe and roll... just keep rolling...

still rolling...make sure to keep the bottom edge as straight as you can...

finished rolling...place rubber band around...sorta near the bottom...i know i had 2 rubber bands in the supply pics....but i only used one...

pull up the center a bit...just to give it a little bit more shape...

then i just adjust to make more of a "frosting look"...

tuck the pom pom in the center of roll...

you don't have to put anything in the bottom...it all stays in there!...that's another reason why when i'm rolling i keep the bottom straight...so it has a flat bottom...

and there you go!...one cutie patootie cupcake!...

if you want to gift wrap...you can grab a piece of cellophane...gather up and tie with a ribbon...like this little guy...
